

Protests in Thailand Will Not Disrupt flow of Sempermed Goods

Many of the gloves offered by Sempermed are manufactured in Thailand. Our factory, Siam Sempermed, produces several billion latex and nitrile exam gloves per year. Over the past several months, increasingly violent political protests have disrupted travel and resulted in the damage to some buildings in the heart of Bangkok, the large capital of Thailand and home to ten million of the country's residents. Recent media coverage indicates that that government of Thailand is working to resolve this situation.

Sempermed gloves are manufactured in Hat Yai, located 450 miles south of Bangkok. The port from which Sempermed product is shipped is located in Songkhla, which lies on the Gulf of Thailand near Hat Yai. We anticipate no interruption in the flow of goods from Thailand due to political unrest, which is primarily limited to Bangkok and surrounding areas in northern Thailand.
